NC4 Appoints Steve Lindeman to Lead Public Sector Business Unit

Formation of new Public Sector Business Unit reinforces NC4's commitment to customers

EL SEGUNDO, CA – April 21, 2010 – NC4 Inc., the leader in Situational Readiness solutions, has recruited Steve Lindeman to lead its newly formed Public Sector Business Unit. In his new position, Steve will sharpen NC4's public sector customer focus, as well as expand NC4's recognized leadership position in providing Federal, state and local governments and tribes Situational Readiness solutions. Steve brings over 20 years of experience in solutions selling, sales engineering and systems integration.

Steve has a strong sales background and has held executive roles at Rockwell Collins Satellite Communications Systems, DataPath, IBM, Candle and Oracle. During his tenure with each, he was responsible for bringing aggressive growth and profitability. Throughout his career, he has worked extensively with the Federal government and is well versed in their procurement and security requirements.

“With the solid growth we've experienced over the past two years, having two business units, one dedicated to bringing value to the private sector and the other to the public sector, will enable us to take our growth to the next level, while continuing our commitment to meeting and exceeding customers' expectations regarding product and service quality,” said NC4 President and CEO, Jim Montagnino. “We welcome Steve to the NC4 family to head up our Public Sector Business Unit. Steve will work closely with Carmen Governale who will be leading our Private Sector Business Unit. Bill Donaldson will continue to head our Federal Programs, reporting to Steve.”

About NC4
